A RECOLLECTION OF CANADA.—A SCRAP OF HISTORY.—On the 26th of October, 1774, the American Provincial Congress, in session in Philadelphia, adopted an address "to the inhabitants of Quebec," and on the 29th of May, 1775, another to the oppressed inhabitants of Canada, in both of which the most cogent reasons were offered for their making common cause with the colonies in their resistance to the oppressive acts of the British Crown. In the former was contained a remarkable as well as far seeing proposition, which is singularly appropriate to the state of things in Canada at the present moment. "We are too well," said the Congress of 1774, "to unite with us in one social compact, formed on the generous principles of equal liberty, and cemented by such an exchange of beneficial and endearing offices as to render it perpetual. In order to complete this highly desirable Union, we submit it to your consideration whether it may not be expedient for you to meet together in your several towns and districts and elect deputies, who, afterwards, meeting in a provincial congress, may choose delegates to represent your province in the Continental Congress to be held in Philadelphia on the 10th day of May, 1775."

The reference of this scrap of history is not ill-timed at a moment when the Canadas, tired out with colonial dependence, and experiencing the insuperable difficulties attending a government half foreign and half domestic, have taken the first step to the formation of a confederation and have persuaded the maritime provinces to join them in their scheme. If they had taken part with the thirteen united colonies, as they were asked to do, their independence would have then been secured as well as ours. As dependent colonies their progress has been slow, their political influence nothing and their history a blank. What prosperity they have enjoyed has been entirely owing to their commercial intercourse with the United States, whose railroads and canals have been the inlets of our products into the provinces, and the outlets of their own. Without these their own works of internal improvement would have been but of little value. The increasing intercourse under the reciprocity treaty, has given the Canadians new ideas, created new wants, impelled them to new exertions, and they perceive, if they wish to grow to their natural size, they must cast off their shell. The narrow and limited system of government, with vetoes on its action by another three thousand miles off, is, therefore, no longer endurable.

The first step towards permanent security and progress has been taken. They have but to take another and their future is made. They should now, as they should have done in 1774, "unite with us in one social compact, formed on the generous principles of equal liberty, cemented by such an exchange of beneficial and endearing offices as to render it perpetual."

Equality of Human Rights

The self evident truth that all men are created equal is something older than our Declaration of Independence. It is a fundamental truth inherent in the constitution of society and must be coeval with the first association entered into by human beings for the establishment of good order or for the purposes of Government. Any form of society which does not recognize this cardinal truth and is not established in reference to it is iniquitous and unjust. If there be such things as abstract human rights these rights belong alike to all. They do not depend upon the will of others or upon any conditional arrangement of society. The very fact that they exist by the equal law of nature pronounces them common and inalienable. Hence when we witness cases where any persons or classes are deprived of these rights it is at once obvious that the act has been done in contravention of that law of nature which puts all men upon a perfect equality in regard to the enjoyment of the rights it confers.

One of the strongest of human desires is found in the wish almost universal among men for superiority over others. Most men wish to be strong, skillful, renowned, or rich, but the controlling desire is for power. They wish others to conjoin to their will, and to be under the necessity of doing their bidding. Though all cannot acquire superiority, none need be inferior for all may be equal. Not that it is possible for all to have equal shares of what all desire, but that each may have what is his own. Then this, the term equal rights implies no more. Every human being should possess and be permitted to enjoy the rights which nature has given him. His impatience of inferiority, and his desire to be equal or superior to others, both of which qualities are natural to man, are motives sufficient to urge him to attempt the achievement of all that lies within the scope of his powers.

Positive legal enactments may exist in violation of these rights, but can never wholly destroy them. Such rights, if taken away by force may at any time be resumed. The fact that they have never been exercised by the person to whom they belong, does not alter the case. They are nevertheless, justly his own. Of his peculiar natural rights a person may have been kept in ignorance or they may have been seized from him by violence and retained by force. In either case he is entitled to regain them by the use of any means he sees fit to employ. No other person is justified in withholding them. The employment of violence for the purpose of regaining them is not a crime. To such extremities may one whose natural rights are wrested away, resort for the purpose of reclaiming them.

Americans have always boasted that theirs is a country whose fundamental ideas are liberty and justice. Yet so far have our practices fallen short of conforming to our professions, that these proud boastings degenerate into the merest platitudes, and when measured by the inflexible rule of right, are but the most unseemly mockery. Steadily and persistently our people have withheld from a large class of persons the rights which nature would give them. Nor have they been satisfied with the foul injustice of divesting helpless beings of the privileges which even the most lowly have the capacity and the right to enjoy. They have gone still further, and have insulted reason and nature by attempting to show that the interests of humanity and civilization are subserved by the enslavement of man, disregarding the plain fact that if freedom be lost, all is lost with it that distinguishes the character of man. Nor has the injustice of slavery been the only crime. A senseless and wicked prejudice against the inferior classes has been permitted to have a lodgment in the minds of the more fortunate, and not seldom the latter look with utter insensibility upon wrongs practised toward those who have not the power to assert their rights or the ability to maintain them.

The people must return to the recognition of the elementary principles of right and justice. There is such a virtue as public morality. It is quite possible to practice it, criminal to neglect its plainest requirements. After the fearful lessons of the years just past it is not the part of wisdom, but of vicious folly, to let this matter pass unheeded, or to view it with derision. The inviolable law of nature entitles each individual to personal liberty, the law of civil society does not answer its ends if it do not afford him personal security. Before the law of nature all men stand equal in regard to their rights. For the guidance of those who frame the civil laws, there need be no plainer analogy than this. Against the instruction thus afforded, the public ear can remain closed no longer. Justice presents its claims, if rejected now, the time will come when they must and will be heard.

From La Grande.—We have received a long letter from La Grande, which we cannot find space to print in extenso. The writer says the winter in Grand Ronde has been remarkably severe. The valley, however, is not entirely covered with snow, though in parts of it the snow is very deep. Up to the date of his letter, March 10th, but little stock had perished. During the entire winter the road over the mountains to La Grande has been kept open. The writer desires to say that the route by way of Umatilla and Grand Ronde is the shortest and most expeditious route to Boise and Owyhee.

The recruiting officer in Union county meets with poor success in raising his company. It is hardly to be expected that there will be as much alacrity in volunteering in the counties contiguous to the mines as in other localities, though we should be pleased that those districts were filling their quotas. The letter before us states that no better investment for capital need be sought than that of building a flouring mill at La Grande.

Brownsville Factory Burned.—By telegram from Albany we learn that the Woolen Mills at Brownsville, Linn county, were destroyed by fire on Thursday night. The fire originated in the dry house. The mills were but lately built and at the time of their destruction were doing a good business. Their loss is specially to be regretted for the reason that the State stands in need of all possible facilities for the manufacture of woolen goods. The accident is a heavy misfortune to that part of the State. The loss is said to be about sixty thousand dollars.

Improvements.—The coming summer bids fair to be one of unprecedented improvement in Albany. Messrs. Beach, Hannan, Monteith and Barrows have sent to San Francisco for the engine and machinery for a first class flouring mill which they design having in operation by the 1st of September. Several fire proof brick buildings are to be erected by different parties. Numerous dwellings of almost every description are now, and soon will be, in course of erection.—Albany Journal.

New York Gold Quotations [illegible]

LATE FROM THE WRECK.—By the arrivals from Astoria on Saturday evening we learn that the stranded ship Industry went to pieces on Thursday. The unfortunate persons remaining in the rigging were lost, which leaves but seven saved, of the twenty-four, crew and passengers, leaving San Francisco. Two bodies had been picked up, and the main mast was found above Astoria. When the steamer Brother Jonathan came in on Saturday morning not a vestige was to be seen of the wreck. When the raft upon which those escaped who are now in this city was about leaving the wreck, one of the seamen essayed to have Captain Lewis go off with them, but true to the principles of his position he replied "No! I'll be the last man off." The last raft broke away from the ship in a swell before the number of passengers to be saved had embarked for the perilous expedition, and as the breakers were washing over the vessel it was perhaps found impossible to do anything more in the way of raft making, and the seventeen remaining were subjected to untold sufferings for a length of time which it is impossible to realize, and none were saved to recount. Of those who attempted an escape by rafts ten were lost, making in all seventeen deaths by this calamity. Capt. S. D. Lewis was a young man, aged about twenty-eight years, a native of New York. We understand he has a brother on this coast, his mother and a step-father live in Chicago, Illinois.

PUBLIC SCHOOL REPORT.—E. P. Beebe, Esq., Principal in the public school of this city, district No. 1, has made his report of the school for the quarter ending on Friday last, March 24th. The following number of pupils and the average attendance in the various departments is shown:—

Higher Department—Miss A. E. Way Assistant, number of males 54, females 10; number of pupils 64; average attendance 72.

Intermediate Department—Miss E. J. Way Preceptress—number of males 36, females 33; number of pupils 69; average attendance 50.

Primary Department—Miss Caroline King, Preceptress, Miss Frances Henderson Assistant—number of males 97, females 97; number of pupils 194; average attendance 98. Whole number of pupils in the school 257; average attendance 220. The Trustees have given a vacation of one week and school will be resumed on Monday next.

MCADAM AGAIN.—In accordance with instructions of the Council last meeting, City Auditor Macker, on Saturday, began the canvass of Front street to obtain the preferences of the "adjacent" property owners for the contemplated improvement. There are a few in favor of plank, quite a number prefer the Nicholson Pavement, and a full quarter number express themselves favorable to the McAdam system of roads. We may probably look for the adoption of the last mentioned style of improvement by the Council, and hope that their "legislation" will be completed in such time as to enable a like consummation for the street. We should very much like to see a street improved with the Nicholson, and venture to say if the owners of property on First or Second will go immediately at work and adopt it, they will secure to themselves the best street in Oregon.

A SEVERE CASE.—While the steamer Brother Jonathan was laid up at Cash Creek on the Sacramento river in January last, one of the hatchways of the main deck had been left open during the night-time, and Chief Officer Allen accidentally fell into the hold. Being a very large man it was a severe fall, resulting in the breaking of his left arm, nine ribs of the left side, and severely injuring his head. He lay in a senseless condition for twelve hours, and when taken to San Francisco his case was pronounced doubtful, if not hopeless, by the physicians called to attend him, yet strange as it seems, we find him about the vessel attending to his duties on the present trip. He has been rather moderately but securely "stayed" to enable him to be about, which in a measure prevents his accustomed hearty laugh, but he sleeps well o' nights.

FROM WASCO COUNTY.—Sheriff White of Wasco County, visited this city on Saturday evening bringing with him an insane man for the Asylum, and "Little Barney," a notorious youth of about twenty years, who was indicted in Linn county a few years since for stabbing a man. Barney, whose proper name we do not know, was apprehended at the Dalles in December last, but having a term of one hundred days to serve from Justice Loring's Court, was not arrested on the document from the Capital until the expiration of his sentence. He has been known about the gaming table, in the capacity of capper, and among the very worst characters of the coast, until he at last appears schooled in vice sufficient to take his place inside the grated walls of a penitentiary.

COMMERCIAL.—The steamer Cascade arrived from Astoria at 7 o'clock, P. M., Saturday. She brought no vessel but it was supposed two were outside awaiting a favorable opportunity to cross the bar. The schooner Mary Davis arrived from Westport on Saturday, bringing 30,000 feet of lumber to Alexander Dodge and the master of the vessel. She will return to-morrow. The Brother Jonathan was discharging yesterday at Couch's wharf. She brings 500 tons of assorted merchandise. After receiving her cargo, she will return direct to San Francisco, leaving possibly Tuesday afternoon.

WERE THEY COUNTERFEIT.—On the day following the recent excitement in this city, concerning the passing of counterfeit greenbacks, two gentlemen, who at least should be well posted in such matters, made a bet on the merits and demerits of the bill. One alledged it was, the other that it was not, counterfeit, and to have the case decided sent the bill to New York. It has not yet returned. In relation to the postal currency, we see it estimated that $20,000 changes hands daily in Cincinnati, few knowing whether it is good or spurious.

WIRE ROPE.—Among the articles discharged from the steamer yesterday, we noticed a coil of wire rope weighing seventy-five hundred and eighty pounds, for Fitch & Co., of Lewiston, Idaho. This "rope" is two inches in circumference and measures twenty-three hundred feet long. It is for a ferry on the Clearwater, we understand. Another coil of such rope, measuring eight hundred feet in length, two and a half inches in circumference, and weighing 676 pounds was landed for E. J. Northrup & Co., of this city. Perhaps that was intended for the Street Commissioner, but in case the Council make the proposed improvements it will not be needed.

SNOW ON THE COAST RANGE.—By parties who arrived from the interior towns of this valley on Friday, we are informed that large quantities of snow still remain on the coast range, in many places reaching down to the margin of the valley. The Cascade range is also very white, which gives the valley a picturesque loveliness, which is only broken as the ideal of a romantic country by the bad condition of the roads.

BRIDGING THE TUALATIN.—One of the great obstacles to travel in the direction of Forest Grove from this city, has been the lack of a bridge to cross the Tualatin river near Hillsboro, but we learn a substantial structure, now in the process of erection at that point, will hereafter entirely obviate the difficulty which has existed.

A NEW PACKET FOR THE OREGON LINE.—Capt. Corno, who was chief owner in the Industry, has purchased the barkentine W. H. Scranton, of San Francisco, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the loss of the former vessel. The Scranton has made one voyage to Portland, coming in ballast to Valentine & Co. recently, and she is a very worthy craft.

SCHOOL PIC-NIC.—The term of school in Keller's District, East Portland, closes to-morrow, and in honor of the day the scholars are to enjoy a select pic-nic feast. The school has prospered very fairly under the efficient management of Mrs. McLeran, we understand, and the occasion of closing with a party is partly to show regard for their preceptress.

SPECIAL TAX.—It will be seen by referring to the notice by the U. S. Collector, published this morning, that those against whom monthly taxes are assessed are required to pay them at the office without delay. Promptness in attending to this matter will save trouble to all parties.

IRON FRONTS.—The steamer Wilson G. Hunt this morning carries on her trip to the Cascades some of the finest iron fronts that can be produced anywhere. They were designed for a building at the Dalles, and were cast in this city by David Monnastes.

THEATRE.—Metamorah was performed at the Willamette on Saturday evening. To-night the drama of the Relief of Lucknow will be enacted.

Respect for the Dead.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

I noticed in Saturday's issue of the Pacific Christian Advocate an uncharitable and unchristian attack upon the memory of that great and good man, Archbishop Hughes, of New York, and in order to prove in what high esteem the deceased prelate was held by those who were capable of judging, as well as loyalty, I will reply to the tirade of the editor of the Advocate, by the following extracts from two of the most prominent men in the Republic, written in reply to invitations sent them to attend the obsequies of the deceased eminent and patriotic divine.

President Lincoln says:—"Having formed the Archbishop's acquaintance in the earliest days of our country's present troubles, his counsel and advice were gladly sought and continually received by the Government on those points which his position enabled him better than others to consider. At a juncture of deep interest to the country the Archbishop, associated with others, went abroad and did the nation a great service ... with the loyalty, fidelity, and practical wisdom, which, on so many other occasions, illustrate his great ability for administration."

William H. Seward says:—"I regret ... that an imperative official engagement will deprive me of the sad satisfaction of attending the obsequies of the late Archbishop, and thus manifesting, in the only way now possible, the respect and affection which I have so long cherished towards him as a faithful friend, a pious prelate, a loyal patriot, and a good man."

Which shall we believe—the President and William H. Seward, or the editor of the Advocate?

Yours, &c., A DEFENDER OF THE DEAD.
Portland, March 25th, 1865.

Cure Your Cold, Save Your Lungs.

NEWELL'S

PULMONARY SYRUP

HAS

CURED THOUSANDS!

And it will Cure You!

"A Cough is generally the effect of a Cold, which has either been improperly treated or entirely neglected. When it proves obstinate there is Always reason to fear the consequences,

as this shows a weak state of the lungs, and is often the forerunner of Consumption."—[Buchanan's Domestic Medicine.

STOP THAT COUGHING!

Some of you can't, and we pity you. You have tried every remedy but the one destined, by its intrinsic merit, to supercede all similar preparations. It is not surprising you should be reluctant to try something else after the many experiments you have made of trashy compounds foisted on the public as a certain cure; but is really the VERY BEST remedy ever compounded for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Consumption. Thousands of people in California and Oregon have been already benefited by its surprising curative powers.

Pulmonary Syrup!

WHAT KILLED HIM?

Dr. Hall, in his "Journal of Health," speaking of the death of Washington Irving, asks the above question, and adds: "He might have remained with us for some years to come, had it not been for advice, kindly intended, no doubt, but given in thoughtlessness and reckless ignorance.

He Had a Cold!

Which, by some injudicious prescription, had been converted into asthma." Let me say to Dr. Hall that that "prescription" was not

NEWELL'S PULMONARY SYRUP.

KEEP IT IN THE HOUSE, use it freely, give it to your children upon the slightest indications of a Cold, and you will thank and speak of it as all do who have become acquainted with its merits.

The Music of the Mill

I could hear the wagons creaking beneath their freight of meal
I could hear the ceaseless sawing up in the [illegible]
But I heard the latter music ringing clear above it all
And my raptured ear was haunted by my loved [illegible]
By the vision of the lattice and the [illegible]
And I used to steal at evening when all the world was still
And listen to the echo of the music of the mill

Long years have passed and I have [illegible]
But Annie is now a woman and the miller is in his grave
And the dreaming youth of old time has grown sedate and long
And altered in all but in love—which blooms from age to age

Now still as in the old time the noisy wheel is [illegible] round
But I never steal at evening time to catch its distant sound
For in the dreamy circle of our cottage on the hill
I can hear in the voice of Annie the music of the mill
—Chamber's Journal

SUPERIORITY OF UNION CAVALRY.—The superiority of our cavalry, says a correspondent with Gen Thomas' army, has been frequently and signally demonstrated in the latter years of the war but never more so than during this campaign. The causes of this superiority are not difficult to be found. Early in the war the rebels armed their cavalry with the saber, but lately its use has been almost wholly discontinued, and the navy revolver put in its stead. Our troops have never laid it aside, and in this they have an advantage.

Its moral effect is very great—far greater than any one can believe who has heard the terrible clanking of a grand cavalry charge, and listened to the words of a veteran trooper as he describes a regiment swooping down like an avalanche on the enemy. The appalling fanfaronade and the clattering din of five thousand sabre sheaths and the glitter of as many keen blades in the air has a terrifying effect which it will not do to scout at when we remember how the rebels scared our regiments often in the beginning of the war with their mere yelling.

Again the rebel cavalry has become a mongrel organization—half cavalry half infantry—which performs well the functions of neither. Instead of the light carbine used by our men, they carry the long heavy Enfield or Springfield rifle of the infantry. They are more properly mounted infantry, using their horses only to transport them to the battle-ground, but dismounting to fight. Bearing two characters, they are at home and confident in neither. Their revolvers give them no superiority till they come to close quarters and then they are overmatched by the quick and deadly saber.

The last and by far the most efficient cause of the superiority of our cavalry, is found in the fact that most of the rebels ride their private horses. Contrary to the received popular opinion this practice is a source, not of strength, but of weakness. There is no more potent relaxer of discipline than to allow men to use their own horses instead of those furnished by the Government. It will insure sleek, comely, and graceful horses but it will just as certainly produce a regiment of horse-jockeys and traders, whose main business is not to fight, but to keep fine horses.

When the day of battle comes the men seek not so much to beat the enemy as to save their horses. The Government never receives any account of captured horses, but they are all kept by the officers and hired to the men at such rates as are profitable. In short the result of the system is to secure splendid horses and horse fanciers but very poor cavalrymen.—Pittsburg Pa, Chronicle
